DECLAMATION CONTEST.

The Participants From High Schools of the Territory.

In order to encourage literary and declamatory efforts in general and to give a contest in declamation in particular, the Tempe Normal School, the weekly paper published by the school, is arranging an inter-school declamation contest to be held at the Normal school on the evening of Saturday, March 16.

In the contest no more than one declamatory piece will be read by each contestant, and the contestants will be judged on the basis of the quality of the declamatory piece, the originality of the subject, and the delivery.

The contest will be held at the Normal school, and the contestants will be judged by a panel of judges.

L. D. S. CONFERENCE.

Apostle Hyrum M. Smith of Salt Lake, Discusses Marriage to Large Audiences.

The Latter Day Saints general conference which convened in this city at 10 o'clock Saturday forenoon has been largely attended by followers of the doctrine from the different wards of the state, the largest congregation being present yesterday afternoon when the large tabernacle was crowded to its capacity.

President J. T. Leake reported the different organizations of the state in good condition and was followed by Bishop J. M. Herne who spoke for the Mesa ward and Edgar Hunsaker for the Alma ward. Elder E. H. Johnson who recently returned from his California mission talked for a short time, the remainder of the session being given over to Apostle John Henry Smith and Hyrum M. Smith of Salt Lake. The former spoke of America as a land, choice above all others and said that we should be thankful that we are living under the stars and stripes. The latter devoted considerable time and attention to the "Trials of Riches." He pointed out how the wealthy are apt to forget their blessings and that poverty is productive of humanity.

At the Saturday evening meeting which was given over to the young people of the church, an impromptu program was rendered including songs and addresses appropriate to the occasion. While the evening was decidedly a young people's affair, Hyrum M. Smith, who is rather a young man delivered one of the strongest talks on marriage ever heard at this place.

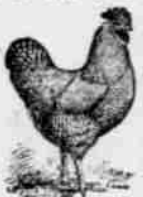

While it is a well known fact that the divine command "Marry and multiply and replenish the earth" is firmly implanted in the Mormon doctrine, yet the speaker went farther and pictured the old bachelor and the old maid in all their glaring imperfections. Apostle Smith said in part: "To begin with the man who does not marry is a coward. For instance a young man lives with his parents, he helps defray the family expenses and he knows that he has a home as long as he lives. He believes that his responsibilities are less than those of the married man and that consequently his trials and vicissitudes are less. He goes along the lines of least resistance until finally he narrows down to a fixed channel. He becomes set in his ways and fixed in his ideas until he is one of the most pitiable creatures in God's kingdom. Old maids are just the same. I have no more respect for one than the other. Now on the other hand what do we see? Take the young man who marries; he assumes a great responsibility. He encounters trials, he learns the depth of a father's love, he learns the sadness, perhaps, that comes when a little one he had learned to love is taken from him; but it all brings out lovable characteristics in his nature that otherwise would have lain dormant. Responsibilities make him a stronger man. Responsibilities make him a more evenly balanced and a better man, I would not have you believe that you should fall in love with a dimple or curl and marry the whole girl. One thing that we believe in is that young people should be acquainted with each other before they marry. If you fall in love with a dimple or curl try to know the young lady better before you take her for a wife. Go to her home when she is in the kitchen or on her knees scrubbing the floor or with her sleeves rolled up in the wash tub. Go to her home when she is least expecting you. Learn how she talks to her brothers and sisters. Find out about her family. Know how she talks to

WASHINGTON PARTY.

Master Johnnie and Miss Edith Mullen gave a very enjoyable Washington party at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Mullen, Friday evening. The double parlors and dining room were artistically decorated with festoons and American flags, while roses, honeysuckles and sweet peas lent their fragrance and beauty to the occasion. Delicious refreshments were served, the place cards being paper hatchets, each bearing a name. An impromptu program was rendered, consisting of songs, music and recitations. The guests upon arriving were given programs containing eighteen questions, the answers to which were to be found on a copper cent. Miss Luck Bacon and Ralph Glickerson were awarded first prizes and Miss Helen Mumford and Irwin Thompson received dainty statuettes as second prizes.

TENNIS GAME.

EVADING JURY DUTY.

Fertile must be the imagination of the citizen who successfully evades, doing his duty on the jury. A man on one occasion appeared before the judge and exclaimed, pleadingly:

"Mr. Judge, excuse me, pray do. I don't know which will die first—my wife or my daughter!"

"Dear me, that's sad," said the judge. "Certainly, you are excused."

The next day the man was met by one of the jurors, who in a sympathetic voice, said:

"Have your wife?"

"She's all right. Why do you ask?"

"And your daughter?"

"She's all right, too. Why do you ask?"

"Why, yesterday you told the judge that you did not know which would die first."

"Nor do I. That is a question time alone can tell,"—Cassell's Journal.

KANSAS CITY MARKETS.

Review of Prices and Conditions of the Week.

Kansas City, Feb. 24.—The general cattle market recovered somewhat from its bad condition the first of last week by the close, and the situation is steady to strong except on medium class fed steers, which are barely steady. The run today is about normal, at 11,600 head, with she stuff and stockers and feeders selling best. The country demand continues strong, as the near approach of spring is an important factor in figuring on the purchase of stockers, while the sentiment is generally favorable regarding the future of the fat cattle market, with the usual large number of buyers such a condition of thought naturally makes. Heavy feeders are approaching prohibitive figures, bulk of feeders selling at $4.40 to $4.85, a few below $4.25, while stockers bring $2.50 to $4.00. Top corn fed steers here lately sold at $6.25, bulk of steers $4.65 to $5.25, cows $3.90 to $4.75, heifers $3.50 to $5.00, bulls $3.00 to $4.15, calves 25 to 50 cents lower than a week ago, at $2.75 to $3.25, according to weight, age and flesh.

Mutton receipts are running short of late year at this time, although there is a liberal supply today, at 13,000 head. The market on lambs declined 10 to 15 cents last week, yearlings, wethers and ewes holding steady account of scarcity. The general market is 10 lower, covering all kinds, partly due to the liberal supply, but mainly on account of adverse reports from Chicago. Buyers claim the market here has been too high, and are attempting to put it on an equality with other points. Bulk of lambs sold at $7.25 to $7.30, weighing 66 to 69 pounds, nothing choice or fancy included, some 88 pound yearlings from the Arkansas valley today at $8.45, ewes at $4.90 to $5.10, although some fancy ewes sold at $5.25 to $5.40 late last week. Very few wethers have been included lately, one lot at $5.85 last week, and one medium lot at $5.40. The market is in a good healthy state, and likely to remain so on the reduced supply that appear available for the immediate future.
